Jane Veldhoven helps clients eliminate clutter and establish functional systems at work and home. She works with businesses to improve productivity through individual coaching and group-training seminars. She also helps busy homeowners reduce stress and regain control of their environment by specializing in home office and closet design.

This room, in the heart of the home, lends itself perfectly to becoming an organized and functional office area for the entire family. The adjacent walk-in closet provides ample storage for overflow from the kitchen and other areas, plus space for coats and shoes. Bright, cheerful, funky colours combine with stainless steel for a sleek and contemporary style. Incorporating systems for handling the flow of household papers, incoming and outgoing mail, and the juggling of schedules and homework, this family workspace is both fun and functional. This room definitely stands up to the test of "everything in its place."
